The Salukis also placed two players on the All-Tournament Team. Marlo Moreland, a sophomore outside hitter, was named the tournament's MVP after totaling 47 kills in the three matches for an average of 5.2 per game. Debbie Barr, a freshman setter, accumulated 120 assists for an average of 13.3 per game.

Friday, the Salukis swept Evansville 15-9, 15-1 and 15-11 to drop the Aces' record to 3-13 overall and 2-7 in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Locke said Evansville gave the Salukis a good battle despite the outcome.

"Evansville played us tough," Locke said. "Even though the score doesn't show it, they gave us a good game."

Saturday afternoon, SIUC topped the University of Tennessee-Martin 15-9, 15-1 and 15-11. The Salukis then captured the championship over Northeastern Illinois University 15-6, 15-10 and 15-3. With the losses, UT-Martin drops to 6-13 overall, while NIU falls to 3-17 overall.

Locke said her team's blocking and passing won the tournament. "We played strong and with a lot of confidence," Locke said. "Our blocking and passing proved to be our keys to victory."

The Salukis improved to 10-10 overall and 5-4 in conference play with the victories. Currently in fifth place in the conference, SIUC will be playing to stay in the top six through its last nine conference games to advance to the MVC Tournament.

"Our main goal is to get into the tournament," Locke said. "Once we're in, then we can look to win the championship. But right now, we've got to keep working hard and improving."

Along with Moreland and Barr, Monique Galvin, a sophomore middle blocker, has stepped up for the young Saluki squad this season. Locke said her young players are becoming familiar with each other, which helps during conference play.

"Monique has really improved since last year," Locke said. "Our young girls are beginning to get their timing down and play together. They've had to play because we had no other choice."

Barr said she was pleased with the Salukis' effort over the weekend and was happy to be named to the All-Tournament Team.

"It's nice to come out of a weekend with a perfect record," Barr said. "It's exciting to make the (all-conference) team, but the credit also goes to my teammates."

Moreland agreed with Barr and is looking forward to the rest of the season.

"It felt great because I hadn't had one (an MVP) since high school," Moreland said. "I think we're more confident now, and we know we're capable of winning two in a row."

The Salukis face two conference challenges this weekend at third-place Southwest Missouri State Friday and ninth-place Wichita State on Saturday. Although both games are important, the Salukis are emphasizing Friday's matchup with the Bears.

"Southwest is a crucial game," Locke said. "It will be really important to win both of these road games to help our chances for the tourney."

team said it could have done better.

"I wouldn't say extremely well," Etzkin said about the team's overall performance. "But we didn't embarrass ourselves. We did average."

The Salukis' doubles play also saw limited success in the A and C flights against some of the nation's best.

The Salukis' A flight doubles team of Smyth and freshman Kyle Henry came away with a 8-5 victory over the University of Cincinnati before losing to a duo from Michigan State, 8-4.

And in the B flight doubles, Etzkin and freshman Brian Ingle won their first match before losing to a UK team, 8-5. The UK team eventually won the championship. Despite the loss, the team thought it kept pace with the bigger schools.

"A lot of those guys were ranked but they weren't much better than us," Etzkin said. "They were deeper down the line, and they could close out points."

Ifner had a plan in mind when he decided to enter the "average" Salukis into a tournament that featured some of the best tennis schools in the nation. He wanted to show his squad that the differences between the big-name schools with national rankings and the little-known Salukis from Carbondale were a myth, a farce and only a mind game.

"There was no pressure on them," Ifner said.

"I just wanted them to see what the top-20, top-30, top-40 teams in the United States look like and how they play."

"In tennis anyone can have their day. The best team doesn't always win. There are always opportunities for upsets in tennis."

Cardinals to play on Braves' turf tonight

The National League Championship Series swings back into Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium tonight with the St. Louis Cardinals holding on to a 3-2 lead over the Braves in the best-of-seven series. The Braves sent the series back to Atlanta following a 14-0 rout Monday night in St. Louis. Atlanta will send righthander Greg Maddux to the mound against either lefthander Donovan Osborne or righthander Alan Benes. The Cardinals need just one win to make the trip to the World Series and face the New York Yankees.

SIUC perfectly matched

Spikers sweep invitational, record fourth consecutive win

By Ryan Keith
Daily Egyptian Reporter

The SIUC volleyball team met Coach Sonya Locke's expectations for the Evansville Invitational Tournament Friday and Saturday.

The Salukis earned their fourth straight win and their first perfect weekend of the season by achieving a first-place tournament finish.

"To be honest, I would have been disappointed if we hadn't won the tournament," Locke said. "Going in, we expected to win the tournament. But to do it the way we did was very pleasing."

SIUC rolled to victory in three straight games over tournament host University of Evansville Friday and the University of Tennessee-Martin Saturday before taking the championship in similar fashion with a three-game sweep of Northeastern Illinois University Saturday night.

TENNIS

Tournament provides experience for netters

By Kevin DeFries
Daily Egyptian Reporter

A school's name or ranking should by no means be an intimidating factor, first-year Saluki Men's Tennis Coach Brad Ifner said.

The men's tennis team faced some tough competition against some nationally ranked teams at the University of Kentucky Tournament Friday through Sunday.

The tournament was based on individual play, and four Salukis came away with singles wins. The A and C flight doubles also walked away with one victory a piece.

Winning is always a bonus against a nationally ranked team, but Ifner said the team's focus was on learning.

"Mainly it (tournament) was all top-

50 to top-100 teams, and that's the reason why I wanted us to go," Ifner said. "I wanted us to realize that there is not that big of a gap or a difference."

"The whole point of going to the tournament was so they realized not to get hung up on what the name of the school is or what number they are ranked."

The competition featured a slew of teams that ended last season among the top 50 in the nation, including the University of Tennessee, the University of Kentucky, Michigan State University and the University of Michigan among others. But the Salukis went in with no expectations weighing them down on the court.

"We felt no pressure since everyone was in the top 50," freshman Randy deGuzman said. "We learned how to play relaxed."

And the relaxed play helped the Salukis pull out a few wins.

Top performances by Salukis in singles play came from one seed senior Mick Smyth in a win over Louisville in three sets in the A flight. In the B flight, deGuzman beat Indiana State in three sets but dropped a three set match to Louisville.

Junior Brian Etzkin defeated a player from host Kentucky but lost against Tennessee in the C flight. Topping off the wins in singles play was freshman Juan Carlos England who beat a player in the D flight from Middle Tennessee State, a school in the top 30 of college tennis.

Although the Salukis' limited success garnered no championships against tennis teams that could be considered powerhouses in the college tennis world, the
